ACER SIGNS AS VINE SILVER SPONSOR FOR 2019

Technology company Acer has been announced as the inaugural silver sponsor for the Victorian ICT Network in Education (VINE) for 2019.

The partnership highlights Acer's commitment to improving the use of technology in Victorian schools.

VINE is a group of committed ICT professionals who work in educational settings across all sectors: State, Independent and Catholic.

The organisation's aim is to provide support and resources to assist ICT professionals working in educational settings to be effective at leading their organisations through the complex and ever-changing world of technology.

Becoming a VINE silver sponsor demonstrates Acer's commitment to the education sector, particularly in K-12 schools.

The partnership underscores the ongoing involvement Acer has had providing computer hardware to schools and highlights the understanding Acer has of the role of ICT Managers in the procurement and effective use of technology in schools.

Acer's sponsorship of VINE will help the network grow to be more effective for its members, providing valuable funds for resource development and other activities undertaken by the group.

VINE's president, Mr Robert Flavell said:

"Having Acer on board as silver sponsor for 2019 means a great deal to our membership. Vital funds provide the network with the capacity to continue to grow and support the work of ICT Managers in schools.

"Acer have been working in the education space for many years and it's great to see them investing in the industry in this tangible way."

Acer Oceanic Sales Director Rod Bassi said:

"Acer is delighted to be supporting VINE via its committed sponsorship and also through our commitment to bringing innovative Education technology solutions to the VINE membership"
